THE PISHERIES—THE TREATY OF WASHINGTON.

In our news columns this morning will be found the proclamation of the President giving official notification to all whom it may concern that the laws necessary to give effect to the provisions of the treaty of Washington from article eighteen to twenty-five, inclusive, having been passed by the Congress of the United States, the Imperial Parliament of Great Britain, the Parliament of Canada, and the Legislature of Prince Edward's Island, the said articles are now in full force and operation.

and the Legislature of Prince Edward's Island, the said articles are now in full force and operation.

Thus passes away one of the most vexations and difficult questions which has worried Presidents, prime ministers, cabinets and parliaments since the beginning of the republic, and which on more occasions than one brought the United States and Great Britain almost to the verge of war. For more than half a century the fishery question has been one of the standing grievances of the New England fishermen—a constant source of irritation between the citizens of the United States and of the Britain provinces. Time and again the fishing squadron has left our harbors with shotted guns, determined to maintain the rights which they claimed had been invaled and trampled upon. Only a short time ago we had the report of an engagement between the two parties, resulteding in the capture and detention of an American fishing sloop, which was afterwards cut out by the prisoners and brought in triumph to the United States. Under the articles just promulgated all the troubles come to an end, and our citizens will have in the future the same rights that were guaranteed to their fathers at the close of the Revolutionary war. When the treatics between the United States and England at the end of the war of independence were under discussion the British Government steadily resisted the claim of the United States that Mr. Adams declared he would sign no articles which did not concede the demands of our commissioners presented under the instruction of Congress. Finally, in the treaty of 1788, it was stipulated that the citizens of the North American devenue. Sittles should "continue to enjoy unmolested the right" to fish in the waters of the North American provinces, and to land and care fish on their shores.

The rights then conceded continued to ex-

on their shores.

The rights then conceded continued to exist down to our second war with Great Britain, when British crulesrs chased our shing vessels and drove them from the seas. At the close of the war England maintained that whatever rights in these waters our citizens possessed under the treaty of 1785 had been forfelied by the war. Again the country was wrought up to a high pitch of excitement, which was, if possible, intensified when by the treaty of 1818 we surrendered the right to fish within three miles of the shore. Then followed unmarenus act of unfriendly legislation on the part of the coloniats. Concessions were made by Great Britain in 1835, and again is 1850, when the reciprocity treaty went into operation. Then came the licensing system, which failed to give satisfaction. In 1870 the question was again reopened, and, after lengthy correspondence between the two Governments, was referred to the joint high commission, with the result told in the proclamation of the President this morning. The settlement of the fibery question is one of the most substantial victories of the Administration. It ends a long and bitter contest between the two countries, which began with the very beginning of the Government, and has been the source of more ill feeling and strife than almost all other causes combined.

No clearer denial of the charges against him or defaut declaration of innocence than this could be made, and it will relieve the minds of many of Mr. Boscher's friends all over the country of Mr. Beecher's friends all over the country who have heretofore accepted his ellence on this subject as an indication of reluctance on his part to a public examination, which was, to say the least, suspicious. He now appears in a new light, and as a persecuted man, who has sliently and with Christian resignation submitted to the assaults of supplicipled weetches, he is entitled to sympathy as carreet and as mountified. miprinchical westerns, as a sentitive in sym-pathy as carnest and as unqualified as the almost unanimous denundation which he has heretofore received. SECRETARY BELESAY yesterday approved the location of the bridge across the Missis-sippl viver at La Crosse, Wisconsin, selected slippl viver at La Crosse, Wisconsin, selected by the Government engineers. This approval estitles a question which has been the subject of consideral le local controversy in the State, and entered more or less into the political discussions of the last campaign. Representative Rusk, from the La Crosse district, who has been in Washington for several days, is entitled to the credit of having carefully argued the case in all its bearings and to the gratifude of his constituents for the success which has attended his efforts in their behalf. The Secretary hold that, while he had no authority to designate a particular location, he had the right to disapprove of selections that might be made by interested railroad companies.

A DISPATCH from Arkshipas tells us the life there a few days ago, and challenged Baxter to show that he was not the Gov ernor. At last accounts the obdurate Baxte was still unconvinced, so that the most clo nt speech that Brooks ever made has al ne for nothing. This is a sad outrage up the Constitution and our liberties

THERE IS ONE OROUND OF ARTICLE UPON the Administration which the Liberal Republican journals might use with advantage. When in these seorching days "Old Probabilities" promises rain and rain does not come, why not insist that the President shall return to Long Branch and attend to the Government? The failure to attack the President upon this point has been a grave oversight.

THE PERSON BUREAU would seem to hav THE PENSION RUREAU WOME seem to have settled the dispute whether or not any man lives to a hundred years. In an interesting letter to the Cincionati Gazetie, compiled from the records of the hurean, Gen. H. V. At different times during the past two years the newspapers of the city have published accounts of successful experiments in the selence of vivisection or transfusion of blood, made on dogs. The result was so entirely satisfactory in every instance that many of our prominent surgeous were, led to believe that the selence could be applied to the allevisition of human suffering with equality good effect. An opportunity to test it did not present luseft until very recently. The experiment was far from being successful, but

THE BERCHER-WOODHULL SCANDAL.

A new and unexpected turn has occurred in the shifting changes of the Becher-Woodhuil scandal case, which is no more or less than an explicit and unqualified denial by Mr. Beecher of all the tales that have been told about thin in connection with Mrs. Thron and other members of the Plymouth church congregation.
